SYNOPSIS

Meet Nick Adonidas. He's a beachcomber, a lovable, colourful, wily, maverick living on the profits of chasing giant cedar logs that break away from the great log booms floating along the coast to the lumber mills. It's a wonderful robust outdoor life bringing unexpected adventure and danger the adults and children of the small fishing hamlet of Gibson's Landing share together.

The centre of the community is Molly's Reach, a hospitable coffee shop run by Molly. It is the news centre, emergency centre, gathering place and home for the whole community. Molly is a warm, loving and comforting character everyone depends on to be mother, friend and confidant.

A favourite character of Gibson's Landing is Relic, a conniving, "no good" rascal everyone likes in spite of his tricks. He schemes to find the easiest and laziest way to get rich and it brings him trouble and funny adventure the whole community shares.

Sarah and Pat O'Gorman are two of the children of Gibson's Landing who find grown-up adventure and excitement in the beautiful wilderness of the fishing coast.

Constable John has the tough job of maintaining order and keeping control of the independent men of Gibson's Landing.

Life around Gibson's Landing is a difficult one in a wild, often treacherous and remote part of the world. The wilderness is harsh and an unsuspecting trap for the inexperienced!
